

RPD Opens Houston Office; Adds to Leadership Team

Houston, TX, June 9, 2016 — Renewable Power Direct (RPD), the national green power company that directly connects customers and renewable generators, has opened a new office in Houston, Texas.

CEO Eric Alam also announced the addition of Mark Mancino, Vice President Sales, and Michael Adcock, Vice President Supply.

“RPD is bridging the gap between customers and generators with competitively priced green energy,” said Alam. “The chance to bring together the kind of commodity market and renewable expertise represented by Mark and Mike is the perfect fit for RPD’s business model.”

Mr. Mancino’s background includes 30 years leading sales and business development in both regulated and non-regulated energy businesses; extensive experience in leading and developing Fortune 500 and National Accounts, as well as creating channel strategies for building sales to C&I end use customers, utilities, municipalities and the public sector. His past employers include Lone Star Gas, TXU Energy, Liberty Power, World Energy and Viridity Energy.

Mr. Adcock brings 25 years of experience in the energy and renewable sectors in corporate energy management, finance, supply, risk management, structuring and market regulation, at both the wholesale and retail levels. He also has been an asset manager for portfolios of renewable energy facilities with over 600MW of generation. Mr. Adcock has previously worked for the US Air Force, Ormet Aluminum, Columbia Energy, Commerce Energy, Eurus Energy, GAMESA and Viridity Energy.

About Renewable Power Direct, LLC

Renewable Power Direct, LLC is a FERC authorized wholesale power marketer that specializes in supplying directly sourced renewable electricity to Fortune 1000 commercial and industrial consumers.

With offices in Washington, DC (1875 Connecticut Ave NW, Suite 705), and now in Houston (4201 Cypress Creek Pkwy, Suite 525), the company makes it easy for businesses to buy green power without relying on generic RECs, making expensive on-site investments in new facilities or being locked into long-term purchase contracts for off-site generation. RPD’s electricity purchasing and grid scheduling services are backed by Tenaska Power Services, one of America’s largest privately held U.S. energy companies. More information can be found at www.renewablepowerdirect.com.

For more information, please contact:

Eric Alam

ealam@renewablepowerdirect.com